FOR MR

Booming in Anticipation of the Railroad—The Return of Mrs. Dally—The Technological Commission—Other Interesting News.

ROSWELL JUNCTION, October 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. William Chestnut, while performing a day's washing yesterday, unfortunately sat her baby on the outside of the well curb, thinking the well securely covered, but the little one in some way removed it and tumbled in the well, a depth of several feet. The mother, in her terrible excitement, lost no time in going down herself, by catching the rope and sliding part of the way and fell the balance. Fortunately she saved her baby, and by pressing against the sides of the well remained there until assistance could be rendered, by drawing them both out without more harm from the friction.

ROBERTSON-DUBOSE.

The Marriage of a Well-known Georgia to a Fair Virginian.

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va., October 7.—[Special.]—One of the most brilliant weddings ever held in this state for years, occurred yesterday at nine o'clock, at Christ Episcopal church, in this place, the contracting parties being Hon. Daday Dubose, of Washington, Ga., and Miss Emma Carr Robertson, daughter of Judge W. J. Robertson, of Charlottesville. Long before the hour of the marriage, the church was crowded with eager spectators. Promptly at 9 o'clock the wedding party arrived, the young ladies entering in couples and taking positions around the beautifully decorated chancel. The gentlemen followed by twos and threes with the ladies whom they attended. The attendants were as follows:

Miss Mary C. Clegg, of Charlottesville, Va., with Mr. H. Hanchett, of Norfolk, Va.; Miss Betsy Carr, of Roanoke, Va., with Mr. Carter Cole, of Culpeper, Va.

Miss Mary C. Robertson, of Charlottesville, Va., with Dr. J. Duncan McElroy, of New York.

Miss John Randolph, of Charlottesville, Va., with Mr. W. F. Wickham, of Richmond.

Miss Virginia Harrison, of the University of Virginia, with Mr. Charles W. Colemen, of Williamsburg, Va.

Miss Eleanor E. Latrobe, of Baltimore, Md., with Mr. John S. Mosby, Jr., of Warrenton, Va.

Miss Martha Southall, of Charlottesville, Va., with Mr. George M. Porter, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Hattie H. Gordon, of Charlottesville, with Mr. Henderson Bell, of Stanion, Va.

Miss Clara Gwyneth, of Norfolk, Va., with Mr. Clark Howell, of Atlanta.

Miss Rosalie Pleasant, of Richmond, Va., with Mr. James Lindsay Gordon, of Charlottesville, Va.

Miss Alice Robertson, the first bridegaard, a beautiful sister of the bride, entered unnoticed, and was followed by the bride on the arm of her brother, Mr. George W. Morris, of Charlottesville.

Mr. W. H. Cooper, accompanied by his best man, Mr. W. C. Cooper, of Augusta, Ga., approached the altar from the west doorway, and awaited the bride. When the party was arranged around the altar and chancel, the ceremony was performed in a most impressive manner by the Rev. J. Stewart Hanckel, assisted by the Rev. Robert White, after which the bride and groom, with their attendants, were followed by Mr. Cooper with Miss Alice Robertson and the attendants. After the wedding a magnificent reception was tendered the newly married couple at the beautiful mansion of the bride's father, at which the city of Charlottesville paid tribute to the fair daughter who becomes a Georgian. A number of guests were present and a delicious. The reception was one of the most brilliant ever given in this kind ever held in the beautiful little city. Mr. Dubose is well known in Georgia, being the son of General Dudley M. Dubose, and the grandson of General Robert Toombs, and himself a young man of great personal popularity and brilliant social qualities. His fair bride is well known in Virginia as one of the prettiest belles of the state. She is one of the most beautiful women in the state, and has scores of ardent friends among those who know her. Mr. and Mrs. Dubose will leave tomorrow morning for a tour through the north and Canada, after which they will return to Atlanta to remain during the session of the legislature, to which Mr. Dubose has been elected a member of Fulton county.

RAISING THE MONEY.

FAYETTEVILLE Booming in Anticipation of the Railroad.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—Since the Atlanta and Hawkinville railroad agitation, Fayette county has emerged from her state of lethargy and is now on a boom. The people think, however, that the county is too small in both area and population to be regarded as a market of $100,000.00. Besides, the people living on the western side of the county are those that if the road should run through Fayetteville, as contemplated, they will receive no material benefit from it; and for that reason are slow to aid in making subscriptions. But a few days ago, a meeting was held in and around Fayetteville, raised about half of the two thousand dollars required of the county, and are trying to get new subscribers. Before the full amount is raised, however, those who have already subscribed will have to increase their subscriptions. Fayette county is a very small county, being twenty miles in length by six miles in width, containing about 5,000 inhabitants. They poll about 1,400 votes two-thirds of whom are whites, consequently a nomination by the democratic party insures the election of the nominees.

The Technological Commission.

ATLANTA, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—The technological commission arrived tonight on the fast train from Pensfield. All are here except Columbus Head, of Greensboro, who is ill at his home. Tonight the board met at the Agricultural college with the prudent result of adjourning. The president of the faculty, the mayor and the city council, and several prominent citizens, Chancellor Mell submitted a masterly and convincing paper in behalf of Athens and the university. The commission leave tomorrow for Milledgeville.

Fayetteville's New Lawyer.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—Among the newcomers to this place is Colonel L. P. Barnes, late of Newnan, who locates here for the practice of law. Colonel Barnes is married and has a family.

Mr. S. T. Bialock, our popular merchant, spent Saturday in Newnan, the guest of J. E. Brown, editor of the Coweta Advertiser.

Mr. M. E. Hill, of Newnan, attorney at law, was there this morning trying to rent an office, and expects to locate here in a few days.

The Victim Dies.

MONTGOMERY, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—Mat Worsham, the negro who was shot at Walnut Grove by Dr. Wayne Swords, is dead. Swords was drunk and had a fuss with a drunken negro very much like Worsham. Worsham came to the store where Swords was, and though he was the negro he had to be hollered with. As Worsham approached him he shot him down. Swords made his escape.

Ignited from a Spark.

ALBANY, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—A. W. Turner's ginhouse, on the Parloing place, Calhoun County, was set afire yesterday, consuming ten barrels of cotton. The window men had a fire near, and sparks from the same ignited the house.

Death in Georgia.

Mr. John Taber, an aged citizen of Franklin county, died at his home, nine miles from Toccoa, Wednesday evening. He was about 70 years old, and was stricken with paralysis on Monday, September 27.

Miss Amanda Burke, aged 16, died at her home near Toccoa, Wednesday, of typhoid fever.

LANDS IN FAYETTE.
$200,000 in Trade Loss for Lack of a Rail-road.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—There are some very fine lands in Fayette county and some heavy landowner. Mr. W. E. Bennett, one of the oldest citizens in the county with a large family, has about 5,000 acres of land in the most valuable timberland. Mr. W. T. Glower, a prominent citizen, has about 2,000 acres of land in one body, and some other parties own large tracts of land, all of which would be better utilized if it was cut up into smaller lots and farms. Most of the people are in good condition, and the soil is good, with average intelligence, and refinement. The roads are good and the farmers are hauling their cotton to the market as fast as it is ginned. More than half the crop is said to be gathered; but Fairbank, Seale, Jonesboro, and other railroad stations outside of the incorporated towns are also well supplied.

Franklin would control if they had rail facilities. At least they would get 5,000 bales annually if they could handle it here as at other railroad points. That would be worth $200,000 annually in a matter of exchange, and say nothing of the trade it would otherwise bring about.

Dougherty Superior Court.

ALBANY, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—A Dougherty superior court is in session now Judge B. E. Bowler presiding. The docket contains a large number of cases to be disposed of, and the court will continue for three weeks. Among the visiting attorneys are noted: Hon. W. N. Spence and L. A. Bush, of Camellia; Hon. R. G. Erwin, of Savannah; S. T. Kingsberry, of Quitman, and Mr. James Griggs, of Dawson.

Torn Out by a Gun.

MARLBOROUGH, Ga., October 7.—[Special.]—A young man got his hand and arm caught in a gun on Mr. Cochran's place, three miles from town. The hand and arm were considerably torn up.

WHAT DID MR. LEDGETTER SAY?

The Question of Dancing and Kissing Under Review.

Sometime ago Rev. C. M. Ledgetter preached a sermon in Dahlonega, in which was reported as follows:

It is a key to the present discussion, and it would be well to copy the mills with negroes who had to work for less wages than the mills have been giving.

A newspaper is to be established in Fayetteville a few days.

Sanderville owes only eight dollars.

Many citizens around Barnett are going to Florida.

The Ocmulgee river is very low, and the boating business is at stand still.

Fayetteville has now five stores, two churches, one schoolhouse and blacksmith shop.

The Methodist Sunday school of Dalton will have a children's day celebration on October 30.

Mr. J. W. Knox has been elected superintendent of the Methodist Sabbath school, of Dalton.

At a negro supper in Gum Creek, Dooly county, one man was killed and several wounded.

Jesse Lamplin, of Lexington, will hold his estate auction on the third Monday in December next.

Judge Kibbe has adjourned Irwin superior court to the next regular term, which convenes in March, 1887.

On Sunday at annual conference Rev. Stokes Walker was elected pastor of the Monroe Baptist church, for the ensuing year.

Citizens of Hiwassee, Tennessee, are raising money to build houses for a primary and high school and a Baptist seminary.

Mrs. A. Schueverius has returned to Griffin from extended trip to Germany and North United States, looking very much improved in health.

The harvesting is going fast along the Alabamas, but planters are complaining loudly over the low prices.

A malignant form of typhoid fever is prevailing at Dr. Lucas' cornfield mines, in Rabun county. One man has died, and several more are expected to die.

Miss E. L. Dunnill will open a select school in Dalton on Monday next. She resigned her position at the Methodist college, Gainesville, to accept this offer.

A warrant was sworn out at Bainbridge by Mr. T. G. Williams against a man named W. H. Moore, of Franklin, and a negro named Mat Williams, forcibly against her will.

There will be a reunion of the survivors of the Ninth Georgia Artillery Battalion on the second Wednesday in October at Ponce de Leon spring, near Atlanta.

Dr. J. S. Bennett, son of C. E. Bennett, who has built up a large practice in Fayette county, will locate in Atlanta.

Dr. J. S. Edwards, of Somerville, will take the place of Dr. Bennett in Fayetteville.

Frank Powell, of Dalton, stuck a nail in his foot.

He pointed turpentine on it to take off the soreness. For some unknown cause he had to burn his foot again, which ignited the animal repeatedly with his bayonet. Then the colonel emptied his revolver in his foot, and only succeeded in ending the fray by riding over him several times. Colonel Edwards said it was all he could do to dispose of the stubborn fellow.

Dr. A. B. Rose and Mr. E. L. Roche, of Charleston, have appealed to Colonel J. N. Lipscomb, master of the state grange, for aid to the farmers around Charleston who have suffered from the effects of the earthquake.

Mr. Joseph Ashby died at his home near Roberta, a day ago. He was carried away by an attack of heart disease.

Colonel Edward C. Jones, of Dalton, was the richest farmer in Barrow county. He owned a considerable amount of property about Elenton and Robbins, and his estate is estimated at $300,000.

THE Knights of Labor have sent the New Jersey operatives who were brought to Augusta to their homes. The situation in Augusta is still as uncertain as ever, with no evidence of a settlement.

ROME was visited, the other day, by seven Mormon missionaries, who have been sent to Georgia for mission work. Every man can be a law unto himself the moment his house is visited by one of these lecherous wretches.

It has been discovered that much of the "pure Jersey butter," which was sold in Atlanta at forty-five cents a pound, is nothing more than oleomargarine, worth but fourteen cents. Four-fifths of the butter thus sold in the city was but a base imitation.

AMONG the members of the new legislature will be Prinns Jones, of Baker. Prinns has been noted heretofore for the slavery with which he annually brought in the first bait of new cotton. He will now have an opportunity to introduce new bills into the house.

The Worst Slavery.

Mr. Powderly is a one-sided reformer. In his address to the Knights of Labor he had a great deal to say about the new slavery. He told his hearers that "the new slave owners," the monopolists, were more dangerous than the slave owners of the past. This is the way he puts it:

The lash of the old time slave owner could strike but one back at a time, and but one of God's saints could stand up to the master. The hand of gold in the hands of the new slave owner falls upon one slave alone, but upon the backs of millions, and among the writhing, tortured victims, side by side with the poor and the ignorant, are to be found the well to do and the educated.

Now, this overshoots the mark. Monopoly is a bad thing, but American workingmen are not slaves, and the capitalists are not their masters. The changes all the time going on in our society show this. Great fortunes are distributed by the death of their owners, and it takes but three generations to dump the plutocrat into the gutter, and elevate the gutterspine to the top of the ladder. In this country the man who serves today commands tomorrow.

But we do not feel inclined to dispute the proposition that slavery still threatens us. It is not the slavery spoken of by Mr. Powderly, and it is not the "industrial slavery" so frequently mentioned by Mr. Henry George. It is the slavery that results from the tyranny of the majority.

King Capital is not our greatest enemy. The foe to be most dreaded is King Mob, or the majority.

This is a new doctrine to Mr. Powderly and the entire brood of reformers. Within the past few years a monstrous political heresy has come to the front. It is nothing more nor less than the idea that the majority should rule. None of the founders of the republic ever advanced this idea. Under our free government the true doctrine is that the majority should rule, subject to law and constitutional order.

Our constitution leaves certain matters outside of the control of the majority. Each citizen, whether capitalist or pauper, has an inner circle of life, into which the government as the agent of the majority must not intrude. A man has the right to speak and publish anything, subject, however, to punishment when he abuses the privilege. He has the right to choose his own religion, but he must not disturb the public peace with his exercises. So, too, he may eat and drink what he pleases, but if his gluttony makes him a lunatic, or his drunkenness is a nuisance or an injury to the public, he may be locked up. The instances might be multiplied, but these will do. Now, the majority cannot rightfully interfere with men in the exercise of the rights enumerated, but through its agent, the government, it may punish men for abusing these rights—that is, for running into excesses.

The disposition of the majority is to run over constitutional rights. We have in various localities in this country laws much more unjust and oppressive than those which drive our forefathers into rebellion. They are forced by the majority upon a helpless minority. Generally every usurpation by the majority originates in a moral cause. Upon the pretext of reform the private rights of the citizen are remorselessly crushed. The unfortunate wretch who belongs to the minority finds his business swept away. He is not allowed to select his own workmen, or if he is a worker, the majority, acting through a society which he has been forced to join, denies him the right to select his employer or fix his own wages.

The power of the tyranny of the majority is beginning to be felt everywhere. Good men exercise it in some localities, and in others bad men are combining to wield it.

Mr. Powderly is honest in denouncing what he calls the new slavery, but he runs the risk of remedying one evil by building up another, evil, as irresponsible majority.

The outlook is not pleasant. King Capital is a rascally, greedy old fellow, but in this country he periodically goes to pieces. King Mob, however, is dangerous. Say what you please, this doctrine of the right of the majority to rule in all things, simply means in its last analysis a resort to brute force. How is this evil to be warded off? There is but one way: An intelligent minority must appeal from time to time to the common sense and the love of justice supposed to be characteristic of the American people.

A Futile Discussion.

A very interesting paper, in the October number of the Atlantic Monthly, is entitled "Race Prejudices," and is from the pen of Mr. N. S. Shaler. There is nothing dogmatic in the tone of the article; nothing to give offence to the people of either section. It is true Mr. Shaler declares that he desires to impress the reader with the fact that "the common notion that slavery was cruel in the way it is often supposed to have been is a grave error. So far as this being the case, Mr. Shaler adds, "the negro, during the period of slavery, was less driven to excessive labor and suffered less from the hatred of the superior race than is likely to be the case in time to come."

Another interesting view is that slavery brought the two races into a position where there was no longer any instinctive repugnance to each other derived from the striking difference of color or form. Mr. Shaler is of the opinion that if the negroes had been cast upon this shore under any other conditions than those of slavery, they would have been unable to obtain this relation with the whites which their condition of bondage gave. His conclusion, therefore, is that the failure of the south to secede are any considerable accessions of population by immigration has been very fortunate. Mr. Shaler thinks that if the old slave-holding states had been rapidly filled up with people to whom the negro was totally strange, his position would be more unhappy than it is at present.

It will be seen that this, as it goes, is vastly different from the tone which Mr. Cable has taken in regard to the negro and his position here. The truth is, Mr. Cable has disposed of the whole matter to such an extent that he has left little room for discussion. He has told the southern people that, as sufferers from the sin of slavery, they ought to do thus and so to clear their consciences and their hands, and his views have been so warmly indorsed at the north that he has taken up his residence there in order to be among sympathizers.

We have mentioned Mr. Cable's name in order to call attention to the marked difference between his attitude and that of Mr. Shaler. Mr. Cable believes that the future of the negro depends on the whites; Mr. Shaler believes that it depends on the negroes themselves. If there is any outcome of the negro, if he is amenable to the influences of development and improvement, Mr. Shaler is right. But there is one fact that seems to have been overlooked by all who have contributed essays on the negro problem to the magazines—namely, that dogmatic discussion does not help matters. All the various attempts to compel the southern whites to conform their opinions and their acts to suit the views of those who believe that the negro is the victim of oppression, have not only been futile, but have operated to prevent the progress of the negro race in various directions. If legislation has failed to compel the southern people to do what most likely they would have done of their own accord, $450 belonging to his wife. The injured wife asks for divorce, alimony, and also an injunction to prevent the sale of her home.

It is said that Brother Blaine is about to stamp Pennsylvania. He evidently wants to convince the country that he is still in the ring.

THINK of Henry Cabot Lodge comparing G. Gridle Hoar to Webster! Massachusetts ought to give Mr. Lodge a little office.

The Courier-Journal's tremendous campaign against democratic protectionists appears to have disappeared with a dull, sickening Thud.

SOMETIMES a lover is too persistent. So it was with Henry Ochs, a rich brewer who lives in New York. He fell in love with Theresa Beyer, his pretty housekeeper, and so annoyed her with his attentions that she left his house. He pursued her with attentions and once when he met her on the street threw his arms around her and told her he would settle his fortune on her if she would marry him. She refused. He had her arrested on a charge of stealing and then peeping at her through the bars offered to secure her release if she would marry him. She steadfastly declined and has sued him for $10,000 for false imprisonment and the rich lover is under $500 bond for his appearance to answer. Here is a specimen of the letters he wrote to Miss Theresa:

Dear wife—I feel so bad that I cannot see you. I feel sick and unwell, and only wish that you was here. If you will only come here and marry me I will settle all your debts. You have a number of clothes here which I have sent to the washwoman. If you will only call and get them, so that I may only see you and talk to my sweet one! My heart feels very heavy while you are away. The neighbors miss your sweet face, but we will be better than I do. If you will come back we will be forgotten. You will come back sweet wife, and me... and I will be your friend to the end. Your loving one, HENRY OCHS.

The report that the center of the earthquake disturbance in South Carolina has shifted from Summerville to Ninety-Six, will give rise to a vague unrest in the highlands of the Carolinas, Georgia and Tennessee.

Can it be that the seismic wave is striking for the Piedmont escarpment?

We do not believe it. The fact that the center of the trouble has moved in this direction is no indication that it will keep on. Its movements are eccentric. It gyrates. It wobbles.

IN A Brooklyn court Wednesday a Chinaman named Man Lee was called on to testify. A fellow countryman, who rejoices in the name of Henry Yee acted as interpreter. The judge asked Mr. Yee what kind of an oath Man would like to take, and received the following answer: "Our religion is a little different from the American religion. We swear by the supreme heaven; we believe in a God but not in Jesus Christ. We have a very solemn oath in China; we believe that if we don't tell the truth a thunderbolt will come down from heaven and strike us dead." Mr. Lee was accordingly sworn in the Chinese fashion and proceeded with his testimony.

It is said that since Editor Singerly of the Philadelphia Record, began to abuse Mr. Randall his famous Holstein cow has refused to give down her milk. Mr. Morrison should be sent for at once.

PERSONS AND THINGS.

DAME RUMOR loves to travel about with Rose Elizabeth Cleveland. It is now whispered that the editor of Literary Life will take a long vacation this winter at the white house. As Mr. George is the fit leader, so is New York the fit theater for the first decisive struggle between labor and capital. While it is without the anarchist element that made Chicago notorious, it is the head and the center of the labor movement. It is also the stronghold of capital. It is the typical American city, as well as the chief American city. In every aspect the fight between Mr. George and the opponent yet to be named, is significant and important.

Mr. George is not a casual candidate whose influence will end with his election or defeat. If elected he will stand as the representative of the new order of things. His immense power as mayor of New York, which vastly exceeds the power of any governor, will enable him to show in some sort whether the new order is worthy or unworthy. We print elsewhere an account of the great meeting that nominated him, and the salient points of the speech with which he accepted the nomination. This marks the opening of a political struggle, and may be as far-reaching as the sharp roll of musketry that opened the battle of the first Manassas.

ALBERT WADE was a circus performer in England. Two years ago he had become too fat to continue his acrobatic feats and was comelled to withdraw from the ring. He determined to reduce his flesh, and for that purpose took a place in the fire room of a steamer. There, in a fierce heat, he shoveled coal eight hours a day until his brain whirled and he jumped into the sea. When the sailors rescued him he raved about the bottomless pit and his fiery torment. When the steamer arrived at New York, Wade was taken to a lunatic asylum for a month. Then he was transferred to Bellevue hospital to be treated for nervous prostration. His mind has been restored.

A PHILADELPHIA burglar has written a card in which he denies that he was ever a New York alderman.

THE FIRST edition of the programme of the coming session of the national prison congress has just been issued. The prison congress will meet in Atlanta on November 6th, and remain in session until November 12th. Hon. Rutherford B. Hayes is on the programme for a response to the addresses of welcome. Hon. William Dorsehimer, of New York, will deliver an address on the late Horatio Seymour, for many years president of the association. The general heads for discussion are "Prison Hygiene" and "Reformation," but under these general heads a number of interesting subjects relating to details of prison management will be discussed. Dr. P. D. Lewis, of Chattanooga, Tenn., will be the subject of a paper by Hamilton W. Mabie, editor of the American Union of New York. Professor Francis Wayland, dean of the Yale college law school, will present a paper on "The Inevitable; Who He Is and What Shall Be Done With Him." Prison labor will be discussed fully.

The programme of the national prison congress has just been issued. The prison expenses will be paid by the state, and the amount will be fixed by the convention.

THE WILLING WORKERS.—Tonight the Willing Workers of the Church of Christ will give an entertainment at the residence of Mr. Albert Howell, 70 Ivy street. The friends are invited. A pleasant programme has been arranged.

A RUMORED SALE.—It was rumored on the streets yesterday afternoon that Colonel I. W. Avery had sold a number of shares in the Evening Capitol to Messrs. G. T. Dodd, P. Dodd, G. H. Adair, W. W. Austell, Dr. Haworth and others.

LARGE SALE OF LIQUOR.—Yesterday Martin of Gilmerton, a large number of barrels of corn liquor to Mr. H. Smithfield & Co. at Rome, the six p.m. Collector Cronshus announced to $2000. The firm has engaged all the liquor Mr. Teague can make.

AN ENTERTAINMENT.—The Little Girls' Missionary Society of Atlanta will give an entertainment this evening at the residence of Mr. Hugh Inman. There will be music and refreshments and a delightful evening is certain for those who attend. Only small charge will be made.

THE CHURCH REGISTER.—The First Baptist church has between eight and nine hundred members, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. Haworth, is anxious to get the membership together and complete the church register. He has offered a prize to the member suggesting the best method. The chair will be rented in a short time.

WANTS THE MONEY.—Yesterday Mr. M. E. Maher filed a suit against the city for $177, which he claims is due him for extra grading on Whitehall street, between Peters and Franklin. The amount is due him because he has not received payment required by contract, and he believes it will be deemed to have been given in a package contrary to law, as any person who sells or offers for sale, or delivers or offers to deliver such a package, will be liable to a fine.

"What is the tax?"

"The tax on wholesale dealers is $40 per year, at a retail dealers forty-eight dollars per year." This is the only tax levied on each dealer's window or paper packages, and must have, besides the name and address of the dealer, printed or branded thereon in letters no less than one quarter of an inch square, the word "oleomargarine," and the quantity in pounds contained therein, written or printed thereon. A dealer may sell half-pound oleomargarine, "one pound oleomargarine," as the case may be.

DEALER IS REQUIRED

to sell from original stamped packages, and, as a retail dealer, sell in such packages, and to make up to his own packages.

New wooden paper packages similar to these usually stamped with the name of the dealer, a retail may be used by the retail dealer in oleomargarine. It is required that each package shall be strong enough to hold the oleomargarine securely, with the exercise of ordinary diligence, on the part of the purchaser, until it is delivered at the point of destination."

"The merchants don't like the idea of tagging the oleomargarine?"

"Not at all. One of them said today that a big factory would do a good business here when the law went into effect."

"How's that?"

"I understand better has already advanced twenty-five years since the oleomargarine question was put before the people. You can just imagine that after the first of November there will be butter and oleomargarine oleomargarine."

TO HOLD A MEETING.

The reporter talked to several merchants and found that they were undecided as to what to do. The demand for oleomargarine is very great, and there are many who cannot distinguish the difference between it and butter. The merchants will hold a meeting in a few days to decide what to do.

ATLANTA MEDICAL COLLEGE.

Opening Exercises Held Yesterday Morning.

The annual session of the Atlanta Medical College opened yesterday morning. The exercises, which began at 10 o'clock, were held in the college building, at the corner of Butler and Jenkins streets. The lecture hall was filled with students and their friends.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Prof. Charles Cohen, the new president of the college, then succeeded Prof. Hunter P. Cooper, who delivered the annual address. This was one of the most strikingly original and interesting addresses of the kind delivered in Atlanta in years. It was received with many expressions of favor.

Yom Kippur is observed by the Jews generally throughout the world, even those who, during the remainder of the year, are lax in their observance at the synagogue, upon this day renew every thought of business and devote themselves to fasting and prayer.

Rabbi Jacobson will conduct the services at the temple.

There are in Atlanta a community of Israelites, principally from Poland and Russia, who are subscribers to the reformed or American ritual. They follow at the temple, corner Garnet and Forsyth streets, and who will have services of their own, conducted after the old orthodox ritual, as followed by them in Europe.

Following the address the class of 1886 was dismissed. It was reported that number of any other previously matriculated in the history of the college. The members were from nearly every state, and several came from the north and west.

The faculty of the Atlanta Medical College is composed of the following distinguished physicians:

Dr. W. W. Woodruff, surgeon.

Dr. W. M. Abraham Love, physiologist.

Dr. L. T. Taliaferro, obstetrician.

Dr. A. W. Calhoun, diseases of the eye, ear and throat.

Dr. H. V. Miller, practice of medicine.

Dr. W. Armstrong, anatomy.

Dr. D. C. Jones, diseases of the heart and lungs.

Dr. F. T. Cooper, ophthalmologist.

Dr. James A. Gray, physician.

Dr. H. W. Wilson, skin diseases.

Dr. F. W. McRae, demonstrator of anatomy.

Dr. J. M. Crawford, assistant professor, diseases of the eye, ear and throat.

PAVEMENT PARAPHRASIS.

Beds to the amount of $71,000 were caned at the state fair yesterday. The governor made a speech covering the amount.

The number of soldiers that applied for artificial limbs yesterday was Captain W. H. Harrison, chief of the Georgia railroad depots, who also consented to rates and all other information pertaining to the freight department of the Georgia railroad.

Mr. McDaniel, commissioner of the fall fair, gave a speech yesterday.

FOR SALE.

THE THOMPSON PROPERTY,

At auction Tuesday, October 10, at 4 o'clock p.m., on the premises. This is unquestionably the most valuable and desirable piece of unimproved real estate in the city, situated on the intersection of Peachtree and West Peachtree streets, both of which are paved, gas and water mains all around. It is a fine building, 25x40 feet, with a wide drive on the other. On the lots are several houses leaving the center vacant for a gentleman's residence, such as can never be duplicated in Atlanta. The house is a fine one-story, 40x60 feet, with a fire place, up town family hotel, covering the entire square foot, built to specifications. There is a small garden, vine covered trellises, etc. It is away, with a bold look down Peachtree into the busy thrif and activity of the city. Such property as this is rarely purchasable in Atlanta, if any price. Home seekers will find this an exceedingly opportunity to buy the finest site that has been offered for sale. Apply to our office for plate.

BROWN & WILSON, No. 7, North Broad St.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR MAYORS.

JOHN T. COOPER is announced as a candidate for Mayor at the coming municipal election.

FOR COUNCILMAN.

JAMES M. STEPHENS, is hereby announced as a candidate for Council from the First Ward, at the coming city election.

FOR CORONER.

We are authorized to announce the name of J. F. KENDRICK as a candidate for Coroner.

We are authorized to announce J. F. BARCLAY as a candidate for the office of Coroner of Fulton county.

It was moved and carried that a committee of three be appointed to consider the advisability of dropping a city from the present organization, to select a city an' to report at the meeting today.

Mrs. Tupper, Sneed and Ryan were appointed as the committee.

Mr. Ernest protested, saying that a city had up to date lived up to the rules, and proposed in the future to pay $2,000 guarantees to keep in during the coming season, should not be dropped.

After some discussion, the New Orleans base ball association, represented by J. M. Kaufman, voted to admit to membership, a guarantee of $100 each year, instead of $2,000.

A committee, consisting of Memphis, Atlanta and Chattanooga, was then appointed to consider the question of dropping one of the present members and replacing it with a stronger city.

This has practically been settled on the basis now in the league being in favor of dropping Macon in order to admit Mobile, and there is no question that this will be done tomorrow.

Mr. Ernest, of Macon, protested vigorously against Macon being dropped, stating that the guarantee would be raised and the season played out, but the matter was considered set.

Chief Connolly and Captain Crim reached Locust Grove about midnight, and found the negro sitting in an old house surrounded, and had considerable trouble to get the prisoner.

Everybody in town appeared to be in bed, and after roaming around awhile they woke some one up and asked:

"Can you tell us where that man is who was arrested here today?"

"Oh, Knott's got him and you can't get him until you pay the twenty-five dollars," was the answer.

A theater party tonight, followed by an elegant banquet at Witts, finished out the day.

The programme for tomorrow includes a drive to Beale Meade and other beautiful resorts in the forenoon, and another business session at three in the afternoon.

A Nashville View.

There will be a meeting of the Southern League in the parlors of the Maxwell house, beginning at ten o'clock this morning.

The indications are that Atlanta will be represented by Mr. John Morrow and Mr. Will L. Cherry.

Mr. Tupper, of Birmingham, will represent the league.

Mr. Ernest, of Macon, will be represented by Mr. Kirby, of Birmingham.

Mr. Tupper, of Birmingham, will be chosen temporary chairman.
